SPACE

(spās), n. O.F. espace, fr. L. spatium space.

1. That which is characterized by extension in all directions, boundlessness, and indefinite divisibility; the subject of determinations of position and direction.
2. Math. The aggregate of points, or ordered sets of  $n$  numbers ( $x_1, \dots, x_n$ ). 3. A limited extension in one, two, or three dimensions: a part marked off in some way.
4. Specif., reservation; accommodations, as on a train.
5. An interval between two points of time; duration.
6. Opportunity; chance. 7. Archaic. A while.
8. Advertising. The page or part of a page of a periodical used for advertising, or the number of agate lines so used in a newspaper. Trade Slang, U.S.
9. Music. A degree, or open place, of the staff.
10. Print. A small piece cast lower than the face of the type used to separate words. 11. Teleg. The interval during which the key is open, or not in contact, in operation. 12. Popularly, the region beyond the earth's atmosphere. esp. that between and beyond the planets and stars.—v.t.; SPACED (spāst); SPAC' ING (spās'ing). To place at intervals; to arrange with spaces between.—SPAC'ER (spās'ēr), n.
